

Building self-resilience

Aim

To give delegates the tools and skills needed to effectively re-build their self-resilience after tough situations at work.

Objectives

1. Understand what resilience is and the theories behind it.
2. Understand the relationship between risk, protective factors and resilience.
3. Learn practical ways to build your self-resilience.
4. Be inspired to implement resilient practices among your colleagues.

Skill level

If you need help and support when it comes to building your self-resilience, then this course is for you regardless of your grade, skill level or amount of experience.

Course overview

Resilience is not just your ability to bounce back, but also your capacity to adapt in the face of challenging circumstances, while maintaining a stable mental wellbeing. This 3-hour virtual workshop will enable you to explore the capabilities, skills, and self-care practices that contribute to building self-resilience.

Testimonials

We delivered this training earlier in the year and the course was received really well. Here is some feedback from an Electoral Services Manager in the North East and Yorkshire Branch –

“The Building Resilience course was very useful, both as a refresher for those, like me, that have been on these types of courses in the past and for people who have little knowledge of the techniques discussed. An important lesson in putting work into perspective. Highly recommended”

This course will be delivered by Richard Wills Training Associates on behalf of the AEA.
